Socialist Worker

Pat the Baker is owned by a right-wing Longford businessman called Patrick Higgins.

He is the type of "entrepreneur" who are backed by Albert Reynolds and the government.

While our hospitals and schools are run down, the Irish rich are given a tax amnesty which allows them to launder their hot money.

It is a tragedy that instead of leading resistance to these policies, the Labour Party is helping to implement them.

We need a different sort of party. A socialist organisation which supports all workers' struggles and believes that society should be run for need and not for greed.

If you've had enough of the greed and injustice of the Higgins', O'Reillys, and Smurfits, then join the Socialist Workers Movement. Fill in the form below.
